

WINE LIST

DEAR GUEST...

With advice and expertise from local wine expert Susy Atkins, we have endeavoured to put together a comprehensive wine menu, which gives a varied selection of styles, both new and old world. We hope you enjoy the selections and Susy's top recommendations are in GOLD.

SUSY'S COMMENTS:

"I've delved deeply into a diverse world of exciting grapes and styles and have come up with an inspiring range, whether it's a new-wave, fashionable Spanish white like Verdejo, or a fine New Zealand sparkler such as Cloudy Bay Pelorus, or one of the top South West English wines, made on our doorstep.

They are all premium wines, but I believe, offer particularly good value. I have chosen them because they are excellent to pair with food. Look out for my selected labels, highlighted on the wine list in italics. There will be more appearing over the next few months. I really hope you enjoy them!"

Susy Atkins (BBC1's Saturday Kitchen wine expert, and wine columnist for The Sunday Telegraph magazine) January 2016.

CABERNET SAUVIGNON

The classic profile of Cabernet Sauvignon tends to be full-bodied wines with high tannins and noticeable acidity that contributes to the wine's aging potential. In cooler climates, Cabernet Sauvignon tends to produce wines with blackcurrant notes that can be accompanied by green bell pepper notes, mint and cedar which will all become more pronounced as the wine ages. In more moderate climates the blackcurrant notes are often seen with black cherry and black olives notes while in very hot climates the blackcurrant flavours can veer towards the over-ripe and "jammy" side. In parts of Australia, particularly the Coonawarra wine region of South Australia, Cabernet Sauvignon wines tend to have a characteristic eucalyptus or menthol notes.

MERLOT

While Merlot is made across the globe, there tends to be two main styles. The "International style" favoured by many New World wine regions tends to emphasis late harvesting to gain physiological ripeness and produce inky, purple coloured wines that are full in body with high alcohol and lush, velvety tannins with intense, plum and blackberry fruit. While this international style is practiced by many Bordeaux wine producers, the traditional "Bordeaux style" of Merlot involves harvesting Merlot earlier to maintain acidity and producing more medium-bodied wines with moderate alcohol levels that have fresh, red fruit flavours (raspberries, strawberries) and potentially leafy, vegetable notes.

SHIRAZ

The style and flavour profile of wines made from Shiraz is influenced by the climate where the grapes are grown with moderate climates (such as the northern Rhone Valley) tending to produce medium to full-bodied wines with medium-plus to high levels of tannins and flavours of blackberry, mint and black pepper notes. In hot climates (such as the Barossa Valley of Australia), Shiraz is more consistently full-bodied with softer tannin, jammier fruit and spice notes of liquorice, anise and earthy leather. In many regions the acidity and tannin levels of Shiraz allows the wines produced from the grape to have favourable ageing potential.

Tempranillo is very often used on its own in Spain, and is a fine grape with flavours of strawberry and cherry and has a good structure. It is also often blended with other varieties, such as Grenache and Carignan (known in Rioja as Mazuelo), or aged for extended periods in oak where the wine easily takes on the flavour of the barrel.

CHARDONNAY

The Chardonnay grape itself is very versatile, with many of the flavours commonly associated with the grape being derived from such influences as terroir and oak. It is vinified in many different styles, from the lean, crisply mineral wines of Chablis, France to New World wines with oak, and tropical fruit flavours. In cool climates, Chardonnay tends to be medium to light body with noticeable acidity and flavours of green plum, apple and pear. In warmer locations the flavours become more citrus, peach and melon while in very warm locations more fig and tropical fruit notes such as banana and mango come out.

PINOT GRIGIO

Pinot Gris, or Pinot Grigio as it is known in Italy, is a white grape thought to be related to Pinot Noir. Its fruit varies from green to grey and even pink when very ripe. The wines produced can be pale in colour, light, simple and refreshing through to very rich and pale pink in hue. Italy's Pinot Grigio tends towards the lighter style while the Pinot Gris of France and New Zealand are much richer and sometimes off-dry.

SAUVIGNON BLANC

Depending on the climate, the flavour of Sauvignon Blanc can range from aggressively grassy to sweetly tropical. In cooler climates, the grape has a tendency to produce wines with noticeable acidity and "green flavours" of grass, green bell peppers and nettles with some tropical fruit (such as passion fruit) and floral (such as elderflower) notes. In warmer climates, it can develop more tropical fruit notes but risks losing a lot of aromatics from over-ripeness, leaving only slight grapefruit and tree fruit (such as peach) notes.
